SOURCE:

1. All employees have a Casa Asigurarilor Centrale card entitling them to free medical treatment for themselves and treatment at a small charge for members of their families.
2. There are general dispensaries, organized according to the districts or residence of the patients, to which the members of all trades and professions belong. Some large industries maintain dispensaries and even hospitals of their own, and in such cases the employees do not belong to the general dispensaries.
3. Medical drugs are issued free of charge in every pharmacy on presentation of a prescription signed by the proper doctor of the dispensary. Quite a number of drugs, such as PAS, are unavailable and people buy them on the black market. This is true also of penicillin and streptomycin of Western manufacture, the public not trusting the Soviet products.
